2. The Commission is headed and controlled by LIU Shao-ch'i and the Chinese Communist Security Department.² It directs all economic affairs in the Government Administration Council. Although nominally a part of the Peiping Government, it actually receives its orders through LIU directly from the Chinese Communist branch of the International Economic Warfare Department (Kuo Chi Ching Chi Tso Chan Pu, 國際經濟作戰部) for which it acts as a front. The lower sections of the Commission are composed of one-third Soviets and two-thirds staff members of the Security Department.
3. The International Economic Warfare Department operates a training center in a western suburb of Peiping. Its chief instructor is K'o-lu-chi-chia-fu. Between September 1950 and April 1951, the center graduated two classes, the first of 400 and the second of 600 students. The first group of graduates was sent to Hong Kong about January 1951, the second group to Calcutta and Prague. The mission of these trained personnel is to set up trade organizations, semi-overt in countries which recognize the Chinese Communist government and underground in countries such as Japan, the Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore, and other Far Eastern nations.
4. In the latter areas, these personnel will form underground organizations and develop smuggling trade. Through legally accredited buyers, they will try to purchase strategic material from the United States. Whatever they purchase will be admitted to China either tax free or at reduced rates and will be sold at prices fixed to yield large profits for the traders.⁴

25X1A 1. [] Comment. [] to the Organization Department^{25X1} of the Central Committee, although AN Tzu-wen is usually considered the director of this Party organ.

25X1A 2. [] Comment. [] to the existence of^{25X1} security department of the Material Joint Purchasing and Sales Commission, since many Chinese Communists believe that most of ~~the~~ Government organizations are watched by a security department in each and that these departments report through a central organization to LIU Shao-ch'i.

25X1A 3. [] Comment. The position and function of this body and its relation to the Chinese Communist government was not made clear. From the description given, it is evidently considered to be affiliated with the Soviets in some way. In every section except the Statistics Offices, the chief is a Soviet and the deputy Chinese.

25X1A 4. [] Comment. In accordance with reported usage in other instances, these profits would probably be applied to financing underground activities in the country of the agent's residence.

25X1A [] Comment. The existence of a Soviet-controlled Material Supply Bureau was reported in [] and the Supply Office of the Soviet Far East Command was discussed in []. It is possible that these offices are part of, or are connected with, the Purchasing and Sales Commission.
